The FCC is redesigning the filing interface for electronic filing of FCC Application Filings for Required Notifications (NT) and Requests for Extension of Time (EX) for Radio Services in the Universal Licensing System (ULS). The FCC will hold a demonstration and training session on how to file applications in the redesigned interface on Wednesday, June 13, 2007, from 10:30 a.m. –12 p.m. The demonstration will take place at the Washington, DC headquarters building, 445 Twelfth Street, S.W., in Room 3-B516 (South Conference Room). Interested parties should pre-register for the event by June 11, 2007.

Demonstration of New Filing Process for FCC Required Notifications (NT) and Requests for Extension of Time (EX)

The NT and EX applications have been redesigned to use current technologies and design concepts and to integrate these applications into the ULS License Manager. The NT and EX application filings are being integrated into the ULS License Manager for both the FCC Form 601 (Notification or Extension of Construction) and the FCC Form 603 (Notification or Extension of Consummation). The presentation will include the following:

- Demonstration of how to file Required Notifications and Requests for Extension of Time in the new environment; and
- An opportunity for attendees to ask questions.

An overview of key changes to the NT and EX application filing process will be provided in a separate public notice announcing the deployment of the new filing process in ULS.
